

COLORADO RESIDENCE

MODERN, SINGLE-FAMILY RESIDENCE SET AGAINST A RUGGED COLORADO LANDSCAPE

PROJECT SCOPE

Eckenhoff Saunders designed this modern, single-family residence set against a rugged Colorado landscape. The home combines contemporary design with rustic mountain charm. The exterior features natural wood siding, complemented by stone accents, and a series of asymmetrical rooflines that add visual interest. The large windows flood the interior with natural light and frame the expansive views of the surrounding terrain.

The multi-level design emphasizes functionality and aesthetic appeal, with an attached garage, a welcoming front porch, and a balance of materials that blend seamlessly with the environment. The earthy tones of the metal roof and natural stonework create harmony between the built environment and its natural surroundings, while thoughtful landscaping of drought-tolerant plants enhances the connection to the local ecosystem. This residence epitomizes a sophisticated balance of form and function, ideal for clients seeking a refined yet understated mountain retreat.
